Two brown heads with laughing curls, Red lips shutting over pearls, Bare feet, white, and wet with dew. Two eyes black and two eyes blue, Little girl and boy were they, Katie Lee and Willie Gray.

They were standing where a brook, Bending like a shepherd's crook, Flashed its silver, and thick ranks Of green willow fringed its banks; Half in thought and ha'f in play, Katie Lee and Willie Gray.

They had cheeks like cherries red: He was taller-'most a head; She, with arms like wreaths of snow, Swinging a bas ket to and fro As she loitered, half in play, Chattering to Willie Gray.

"Pretty Katie," Willie said-And there came a dash of red Through the brownness of his cheek-"Boys are strong and girls are weak, And I'll carry, so I will, Katio's basket up the hill."
